parades, simply a loaf until the muster out. The men, with few exceptions, have already turned in their guns, their canteens, their cooking and eating utensils and these will not be reissued. All they have is their uniforms, blankets and tents and they will continue in this condition to the end of their service. their service.

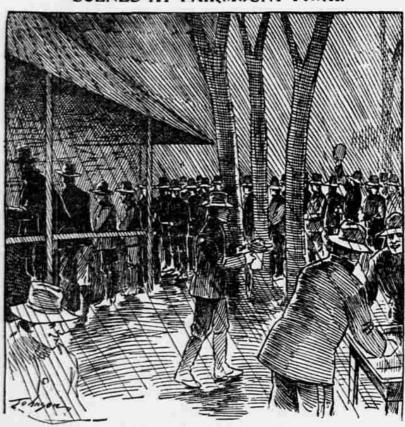

The fact that the mess articles have all

The fact that the mess articles have all been surrendered is probably one reason why the government made a contract for feeding the men instead of allowing them to do their own cooking, as heretofore. The Topeka firm which has the contract for feeding the men must furnish not only the food properly cooked, but also the tin plates, tin cups, knives, forks, etc., for the men to eat with. The contractors have evolved what seems a perfect arrangement for carrying out this contract. Near each resimental headquarters they have erected a large cook house and built therein great brick furnaces much resemble those used about sorghum mills and the great boilers and ovens are not unlike the vats in which cane sorghum mills and the great bollers and ovens are not unlike the vats in which cane juice is boiled in the making of molasses. The "coffee pot" is a huge tank of boiler iron holding 130 gallons. Larger tanks are used for boiling potatoes, cooking corn. tomatoes or other vegetables. One furnace is covered with a huge broiler where hundreds of pork chops or steaks are cooked at once. The oven is also a huge boiler iron affair and hundreds of pounds of meat are roasted in it at one time.

There will have to be snother investigation of the war department. Secretary Alger, after issuing orders for the reassembling of the Third and Fifth Missouri volunteers, has negligently failed to provide an equable climate. He has actually allowed it to rain.

Rain never fell any faster in the chaparral thickets of Cuba, when the boys in blue were advancing on Santlago, than it did were advancing on Santlago, than it did san contractors furnish a pro-yesterday in the two camps at Fairmount fusion of food and are anxious that al park. It was no more wet at Chickamauga or Camp Alger than it was, as it came in a constant downpour upon the tents of the Third and Fifth Missouri regiments all day long and into the night.

How the Third and Fifth Regiments Took Their Meals Yesterday,

In one thing the Southern camps and marches and battlefields had the advantage, the rain was not so cold. Yesterday it was cold enough to send a chill to the stoutest heart and it actually did send a chill to legs, feet and shoulders, as it drove against the person, saturated the garments to the skin, or soaked through the rubber but surely from the very marrow in the bones. Lucky, indeed, was the soldier who did not at least once during the day or evening make a misstep and get into one of the running brooks which interlaced the camp ground and get such a "douse" of ice cold water up over his very shoe tops as made him involuntarily wish for home and mother dear from his inmost soul.

mother dear from his inmost soul.

Cold, cheerless, wet, muddy, are the only words which describe the camp through the dreary drizzle of the livetong rainy day, a day whose exact opposite was found in the hundreds of buoyant soldier boys whose spirits seemed to rise in an inverse proportion as the gloom thickened. Brave, stout hearts the soldiers exhibited, laughter and song, story teaing and mirth caused the hours to speed rapidly away. caused the hours to speed rapidly away. At intervals a chorus of "Yip, yip, who-owould be heard from the electric car line as some new squad or company seached the camp ground from the city, an wered by similar Indian-like calls from the boys by similar Indian-like cails from the boys aiready assembled in the tented field.

The boys who had spent months in camp together, enduring the discomforts incident to preparations for war, had formed attachments for each other and a love for camp life, which made them glad to meet again after their thirty days' furlough. What matter that the rain slowly drizzed or came in icy gusts? The regiments were getting together again and the hearty comradeship which soldier life produces rejoiced and was happy in the face of all discomfort.

Gathering for Muster Out.

The soldiers of the Third and Fifth regiments are gathering for their final muster out from the service of Uncle Sam. By to-morrow evening every member of the two regiments not absent on sick leave is expected to be in camp ready to be mus-tered out. Some of the boys have been back to camp for several days and many more came in on Saturday and Sunday A good many, though, who had the "price" did not go out to camp yesterday, wisely preferring to remain in the city and sleepng in a bed under a roof to going to the camp, where a snake down or the bare ground with a tent covering was likely to be their portion. This is especially true of the Third, the bulk of whose members live in Kansas City. They stayed at home and will not reach the camp until to-day or to-morrow morning. or to-morrow morning. There were less than 200 members of the Third in camp yesterday, while almost 500 of the Fifth were on the grounds, the latter regiment being composed largely of men from outside towns, who, upon reaching Kansas City, go directly to the camp. Lieutenant Flynn, of the Seventh cavalry of the regular army, is the mustering out officer. It has been stated that the muster out would be completed by the end of the mouth, but the lieutenant is of end of the month, but the lieutenant is of the impression that the first week or ten days of November will have sped away be-fore the work is completed. Among offi-cers and men there is a feeling that the work will not be hurried by the govern-ment unless Spain shows extreme tract-ability in the negotiations of the peace commission, and that if the haughty don "acts up" at all, it might yet be decided, at the eleventh hour, to keep the regiments in the service.

eleventh hour, service, at even if this contingency does not at even if this contingency out will be the service.

But even if this contingency does not arise, the work of mustering out will be slow. All the accounts must be gone over to see just what is due each man in wages, in unused clothing allowance and in ration mency allowance for time spent on furlough. The men of both regiments will have due them two months ray, an average of about $5 each for unexpended clothing allowance and some $7.50 of ration money, or a total of about $5 each.

In addition to this sent of work every soldier is to have a thorough physical examination by the surgeon just as he did upon enistment. His condition is to be carefully recorded and the record preserved for future use by the p nelon department if his application is ever made for a pension. All of this work takes a great deal of time, naturally, and wenthe red tape regulations of the government are considered it can readily be seen that the mustering out of two regimens is not a matter of a few hours, especially as, in addition to all the above, complete and voluminous discharge pajers must be filled out for each enlisted man.

When all the requirements are completed in detail, if there is no change in the orders, the regiments will form in line and each man will step out of the service and into private life as his name is read from the rolls.

Six hundred pounds of steak will be Six hundred pounds of steak will be used for breakfast this morning in the two regiments, and when all the men arrive it will require about a ton of meat at each meal. Other articles are used in proportion, and even with less than a third of the men on the ground the bread to be used for the day is stacked up in the commissary tent like great piles of cordwood. The bread is baked in the city and the loaves are about three feet long, presenting a very imposing appearance to a hungry man.

A big mess tent for each regiment, containing two long tables, is for the meals of the officers, who get everything from the same big pots and kettles as the men, though, as the officers pay for their own meals, some extras in the way of pastry are added.

The boys had a wet time at their meals yesterday. Though their tents are all rainproof, the boys stood about under the trees consuming their victuals, seemingly happy and jovial despite the cheerless, drizzing rainfall.

The most cheerless feature of the camp yesterday, however, was the sleeping acdrizzling rainfall.

The most cheerless feature of the camp yesterday, however, was the sleeping accommodations. The Third regiment tents nearly all had floors in them, but those of the Fifth were the bare ground and there was not even a supply of straw for the boys to lay upon. Such of them who did not go on a foraging excedition to a strawstack near by had only their ponches and blankets between their bodies and mother earth. mother earth.

They Got Chicken Twice.

Soldiers are quick to take advantage, At the Third regiment cook house last evening on the first passage by the window the oldiers were given chicken, the second eef. The boys soon caught on and zealbeef. The boys soon caught on and zealously made the second trip, but called out "first" as they handed up their plates. They were thus given the second installment of chicken until the ruse was discovered, when the deal was called off.

The Metropolitan company had withdrawn its concession of soldiers riding free on the cars. Many of the boys who came in yesterday were "broke" and this regulation caused them some trouble. One squafrom Carthage and Harrisonville completely filled one of the big electric cars and when the conductor came around refused to pay. The car was put about and the soldiers carried back to Fifteenth street, when they refused to get out of the car. solders carried back to Fifteenth street, when they refused to get out of the car. Finally officials of the road ordered the conductor to take them out to the park and gave instructions that the incoming soldiers would be taken to the park free, but that once out there all riding thereafter should be pald for at regular tariff rates.

Since their furlough, the officers say, the men to the proportion of 75 per cent would like to stay in the army if they could retain their regimental organization and line officers. Before their furlough probably officers. Before their furlough probably less than 20 per cent were of this mind, but since they have visited home and found difficulty in securing work they seem to have forgotten the discomforts of which they complained and remember only fun, novelty and excitement of soldier life.

"This is a prosperous year in Oklahoma," said Governor Barnes last night, "and that means a Republican victory. Flynn is sure of being elected, in fact is gaining votes every day, while the policy being pursued by his opponent, Judge Keaton, is losing him votes. The free silver issue has been relegated to the rear and is hardly made part of the campaign, the fusion party rying to win by asserting that Flynn is nsincere in his free homes policy. Every body almost knows that Flynn would rather have his right hand cut off than have his free homes measure totally fail, and it is generally known that he never worked harder in his life than he did last winter

"In spite of these well known facts Kea ton and his friends are making a big fight on what they call his insincerity. Naturally such a policy is making Flynn vote instead of losing them. The people who voted against him two years ago see their mistake now and will rectify it. You can state positively that Flynn will be the next delegate from Oklahoma. Not only hat, but we expect to elect a majority of the councilmen and not a few of the members of the lower house.

"An attempt has been made to make an issue of the tax raise by the territorial board of equilization, but a little investi-gation and explanation easily does away with that illusion. As a matter of fact, Oklahoma has the lowest tax levy of any territory in the Union-4.7 mills-and had its county clerks in Woods and Oklahoma counties done their duty there would have been no necessity for opposition to the

Life Was Becoming Burdensome and There Was No Pleasure in Anything-What Hood's Sarsaparilla Did In This Case.

"I have been a sufferer from catarrh, dyspepsia and piles, and life was becoming burdensome. I had a constant tired feeling and felt so bad that there was no pleasure for me in anything. I tried various remedies with no good results. In fact, some of them made me worse and I gave up medicines and thought I would wear the disease out. I found I could not do this and I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills. That terrible tired feeling is now gone, the catarrh has disappeared and I am able to go about my work with pleasure. From my experience I can testify that Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, builds up the system and makes a man feel that life is worth living." plans formed. If an indictment is returned his case will go direct to the criminal court and may not be heard, on account of the overburdened docket, for months.

Friends of Jesse James still express great confidence in being able to clear him of the charge. They declare that much has been published in the case which is absolutely untrue, and that they have evidence which disproves a number of points in Confessor Lowe's statement. They take the position that if they can show that part of his statement is a lie it will go far towards making a jury think that all of it should be taken with great allowance. plans formed. far towards making a jury think that all of it should be taken with great allowance.

The positive statement of the brakeman of the train on which Lowe says that he rode to town after one of his reconnoitering expeditions that Lowe's companion was a man totally unlike James in size or complexion will, they think, throw that part of the story to the ground while, they argue, the fact that the detectives gave out a story that this same brakeman had identified James to a certainty as the man shows the detectives to be engaged in a desperate effort to convict somebody regardless of the facts.

They say, too, that the story is false which was given out that detectives had taken one of the horses, which Lowe says was driven out to Leeds, the horse having a malformation of foot which caused it to wear a peculiar shoes, and that the track made by this shoe was compared with tracks made the night of the robbery and found to be identical. Liveryman Self is reported by James' friends as saying that no officers have had the horse in question, while the blacksmith who shoes it says he does not put a special shoe upon that foot and that the imprint of the foot is the same as that of any other horse.

They also claim that they can produce reputable and disinterested witnesses by whom they can prove beyond a doubt that there were no horses and buggles stopped at the locality where Lowe says the buggies were held for a long time waiting for the robbers to gather and proceed to the scene of the proposed holdup.

They claim to be able to disprove other points of Lowe's statement in addition to the daily they have for James and which

WHY GANG CAUSED JESSE JAMES TO BE ARRESTED.

What an Old-Time Friend of the James Family Down in Sni-a-Bar Thinks of Jesse's Arrest.

"The arrest of Jesse James for train robbery is a political job and I know it. They can't fool me," said a man from the east end of Jackson county yesterday. "I have a whole lot of Yankee lead in my system and have had more there than there is now. I knew the elder James and his friends, the Youngers. Some of my neigh-bors think I knew too much of them during the war times and maybe I did. But I was not connected with any of their operations after the war and my neighbors all know it. "I have known young Jesse James, hough, almost ever since he was born and

It don't believe he had anything to do with the affair at Leeds last month. Nor they can't make me believe it, either. He has been a most earnest and careful boy all his life and has often said to me that the prejudice in the country against his father made getting on in life an uphill business, but he was going to make a success in spite of that prejudice. I just know he didn't rob that train.

"I have studied this thing out to my satisfaction and there isn't any man that can change it till after I see whether it don't work out just as I say. You see, the police and the detectives want to arrest; somebody for that train robbery. Now, I believe that some of those detectives have set up a job with that man Lewe and maybe promised him semething to make that confession. In that way they have arrested a young man whose name is known from one end of the United States to the other for what his father did and of whom the whole country is ready to believe anything of the kind just because he has his father's name.

"You see, they can't try any of these train robbery cases at this term of couri, leastways not before election time, and by having made that arrest the fellows who have been clamoring for someone to be arrested have been satisfied and are now running around saying, 'Ain't our police and detectives doing great work?' 'Ain't Chief Hayes and Inspector Halpin, or whateveryou-call-him, hot stuff?' They are satisfied that the right men have been got when it isn't the right men have been got when it isn't the right men have been got when it isn't the right men at all. But it gives them a chance to boost the gang along that is trying to run the Democratic party for Ed Findley and Jim Pendergast and that is just what they wanted them to do. Because Hayes and Halpin are in with the gang and have got to do what they say or get out and give someone who will mind them a chance. Understand, there is a gang gambling deal in this also.

they say or get out and give someone who will mind them a chance. Understand, there is a gang gambling deal in this also.

"Then they think they have got us fellows out here in the east end of the county fixed up, too. You see, they have got Old Man Crittenden and a few more like him that are in cahoots with the gang to come out and say that Jesse James didn't have anything to do with the train robbery, and be his friends and help him out of the trouble. But it isn't right. The boy has a hard enough time to go against the prejudice there is agains his name, as it is. Of course they will 1 ihim loose after election is over, but the mischlef is done right now, and it doesn't make any difference if some one was to come up and prove that it was another gang altogether, which I am sure it was. There will always be a whole lot of people who will believe that Jesse was guilty anyway, and make it hard for him to get along.

"I don't know how to express myself about men that would have happened to them in war times. There is one thing that I can say, though, and that Is that we will show them that they can't work any such games on us down there in Snia-Bar township. We are Democratic party, and they don't go' with us. It is a shame and an outrage, and I wish there was some way we could get at the rascals besides the way we are going to at election time. This gang is a disgrace to our party.

CAN'T FOOL FARMERS.

Country Voters Are Not to Be Caught With Orntor Jim Reed's Chaff

This Year. "The speeches of Jim Reed, the Demo cratic gang nominee for prosecuting attor-tey, on the stump this fall remind me very much of the manner in which pickpocket go about their business in large cities, said a well known Populist from Ford Osage township. "You know one of the favorite games of a couple of the light-fingered craft working together is for one fingered craft working together is for one of them to go up to the victim and engage him in earnest conversation while the other chap relieves him of his valuables. Now Reed in his speeches tells us all about affairs down at Washington and how much the Republican party is stealing at the national capital, but never says a word about how much the Democratic gang is stealing in Kansas City and Independence. If he doesn't know that we know that the amount of government taxes we pay annually in tariff and all other ways doesn't amount to a picayune beside what we pay to the county he is a chump. He wants to keep us interested in national politics and, free silver while the gang politicians who are behind him are allowed to be re-elected for another term and have a chance to bleed us as they have for the past few years.

"Jim Reed makes a fine speech and at

"Jim Reed makes a fine speech, and at a picnic or Fourth of July celebration he is all right, but the time is now here to talk business and Jim Reed dare not talk talk business and Jim Reed dare not talk it. I don't mean to say that he is a coward, but the facts are against him and strongly against him. He knows it, and only attempts to dodge them and get us to talking national politics. It won't work. We have caught the hand of the gang in our pockets and we are going to make it hot for them out our way. If you fellows down here in town do the right thing by the Republican and Populist ticket you will find that the country will be in line. "Jim Reed blames us Populists because he says that he did all he could for Bryan in 18%, and he abuses us because we don't will find that the country will be in line.

"Jim Reed blames us Populists because he says that he did all he could for Bryan in 18%, and he abuses us because we don't pay him for making those speeches that he claims to have made for free silver by indorsing him for prosecuting attorney. But free silver is not the issue of this campaign. The issue is, 'How are we going to prevent Jackson county from going into bankruptcy?' and we know that Ed Findiey and Jim Pendergast, who were notoriously the bosses of the last Democratic convention, in spite of the efforts of Shannon, are not in favor of making any less places in the county offices for the men who they can handle when they need help in those county offices to get one of their creatures released from prison for crime or to let the gamblers do business in Kansas City or some other thing of the kind. They want the power, they had it in the convention, and they propose to use it after election. Jim Reed owes his nomination to Pendergast, and if he is elected he will have to pay the debt.

"On the other hand, the men on the fusion ticket were nominated because the delegates thought they were qualified to fill the places. Many of them were named and do not owe their nominations to any one man or clique of men. They have no debts to pay, and will make good officers because they are good citizens, and have property interests in the county that must be protected after they are out of office. The Populists and Democrats of our end of the county know these things and they are not going to allow Reed or anyone else to divert their attention to party prejudices or national issues while the gang is quietly fixing to rob the county for another official term."

NEW DEPARTURE IN POLITICS. adies' Day Has Been Established and Next Saturday Mrs. J. Ellen

Foster Will Speak. Chairman Peterson and Secretary Mc-Farland, of the Republican county central committee of Wyandotte county, will estabish a new precedent in political campaigning. From the beginning of the present campaign a special effort has been made to get the women out to the big Republican campaign a special effort has been made to get the women out to the big Republican meetings held in the wigwam on Huron place. While the members of the fair sex are disfranchised as far as state and county elections are concerned yet the managers of the Republican campaign in Wyandotte county arrived at the conclusion that the women, as a rule, are better philosophers than the men and though they have no vote this fall it has been figured out that it is possible that they may dictate the votes of their husbands. It has been claimed that technically the women are that it is possible that they may dictate the votes of their husbands. It has been claimed that technically the women are entitled to half of their husbands' vote and if they cannot agree upon their joint ballot they should not vote at all.

In view of enlightening the women on the leading political issues the local committee has decided to designate one day during the campaign as ladies' day. This is a new departure in Wyandotte county politics, but it is thought that the results will be highly satisfactory. Next Saturday has been declared Ladies' day and on that evening the big Republican wigwam on Huron place will be turned over to the women. The principal speaker will be Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, a political speaker of national reputation. Mrs. Foster took a very active part in the last presidential campaign and she is accredited with making many votes for Major William McKinley, Mrs. Fester is billed to make five speeches in Kansus between now and the election.

Her bome is in Indiana.

Congressman Benton spoke at Higginsville last week at a Democratic rally. His most convincing argument, as given by a local paper, was the following: "I believe the Republican party was organized to plunder the common people, and it is doing it."

This is the sort of talk the imported talent is doing to convince the voters that Mr. Cowherd should be returned to con-
